About CIFC

Connecting Korea's Finance with the World

Korea's Dedicated Platform
for Global Financial Cooperation

Who We Are

The Council on International Financial Cooperation (CIFC) is a public-private consultative body established in 2013 under the leadership of the Financial Services Commission of Korea. Representing Korea's financial industry, CIFC brings together 24 major public institutions, private financial companies, and industry associations to promote coordinated international financial cooperation.

What We Do

CIFC serves as a dedicated platform connecting Korea's public and private financial sectors with global partners. Through International Financial Cooperation Forum, Bilateral Financial Cooperation Forums, Knowledge Exchange Initiative, Visiting Professional Program (research projects), and seminars, CIFC supports global expansion of Korean financial institutions and facilitates practical cooperation with financial authorities and institutions worldwide.

Key Milestones

Since 2013, CIFC has built a decade-long track record of international financial cooperation, expanding its engagement across multiple regions and partner countries. Through sustained collaboration with foreign financial authorities and institutions, CIFC has evolved from ad hoc exchanges into long-term cooperation frameworks, contributing to deeper policy dialogue and the growing global presence of Korean finance.
